NEGROES ON TRIAL IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Belleville, Ill. Oct. 3.—Testimony as to events leading to the murder of Detective Coppedge and Policeman

Wodley, of East St. Louis, early on the morning of July 2, which in turn precipitated the rioting that climaxed in the slaying of negroes in East St. Louis that night was given at the trial of thirteen negroes charged with the murder of the police officers.

James A. Farmer, chief counsel for the State, in opening his case, said that he would not be able to show that each of the thirteen negroes was armed when Coppedge was killed, but he would show that they were in the crowd of negroes from which shots were fired at the automobile containing police officers and therefore they were accessories to the murders.

It developed that attorneys for the defense will plead that the assembly of negroes was due to the fact that a raid was made on the negro district about 9 p. m. by an automobile party of whites who fired into the negro homes. In fear of a return of white raiders, the attorneys will seek to prove the negroes armed.
